I have been battling a convergence issue with a Toshiba 65HDX82 TV for some time now. I have changed the convergence ICs, but that was not the problem because the TV looks exactly the same. I have checked the associated resistors, and they are all fine, too. I have checked every pico fuse that I can find -- all of them are okay.

The picture on my Toshiba 65hdx82 has gone screwy; it's pincushioned badly and the convergence is off and changes from time to time. Manually adjusting convergence both red and blue move. I also found enough information on the internet to get into the service menu and do some convergence adjustment there--just enough to see that all three move.
