In 2017 Colorado Teardrops switched to all-aluminum-framed side walls and ceiling with the objective of becoming "the Airstream of teardrop trailers," built to last for generations. The company offers four models, of which the Basedrop is the entry level. Maple plywood adorns the interior of the sleeping area and the rear galley that has a 15×60-inch countertop.

It is unbelievable how many people don't do the necessary maintenance on everything from teardrops to expensive motor homes, and warranties don't generally cover neglect. Also, it only makes sense if someone starts modifying the structure that they should assume responsibility for issues associated with those modifications.

I am re-purposing an old work trailer (it used to be an oven.) into a camper for my wife and I. It has worked hard and I think she deserves a good retirement! This trailer has about 350k miles on it and has held up remarkably well. Diamond Cargo is the manufacturer. Our kids are older now and enjoy tent camping. There will be water in the sink ...

Where and how are you running your vents out? I'm still scratching my head on this. The easiest would be to go straight up and out on the curb/door side, but i am afraid of the smells on that side of the trailer and being too close to the door. It's a bit of a pain to get it to the center of the trailer and a huge pain to get it to the driver side.

Teardrop trailers have been widely popular in the United States since the 1930's. Originally known as "The honeymoon house trailer". With a Teardrop Trailer you have a comfortable bed and don't have to sleep on the ground. Our Teardrop Trailers have virtually little or no setup unlike tents, or pop-up's. This makes for a perfect travel trailer.
